Dear Jonathan,

Re: Sample Evidence – No Evidence Found

After an exhaustive investigation that included squinting at grainy screenshots, searching for files named “final_final_v2,” and interrogating our office plants for hidden secrets, we have concluded that no evidence was found for your request.

This may come as a surprise, but please rest assured that our team left no stone unturned—except for the one in the breakroom that doubles as a doorstop.

We recommend that for future cases, you ensure all evidence isn’t hiding behind the “forgotten password” wall of your email inbox. As always, we’re here to assist (and laugh) if the need arises again!

Warm regards,

The Case Investigation Team
